Alexander Sved, a leading baritone of the Metropolitan Opera association will give the first concert of the new year on Jan. 12, at 8:15 in the college auditorium. He will be the fifth concert artist presented in the current concert-lecture series sponsored by the SLC.

A native of Budapest, Sved began his musical career as a violinist, studying with the great Hubay at the Hochschule fur Musik in that city. Later, he changed to singing classes at the same academy and completed his formal education at the University of Budapest.

He continued his musical studies in Italy with Riccardo Stracciari, Titta Ruffo and Fritz Feinhals, the Wagnerian baritone, and in three seasons became a leading member of the opera houses in Vienna, Munich, Berlin and Rome, of La Scala in Milan, Covent Garden in London, Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires and the Municipal Theater in Rio de Janeiro.

Conductors like Arturo Toscanini and Bruno Walter chose Sved to appear with them at world famous festivals in Salzburg, London and Florence.

In a typical concert, Mr. Sved sings compositions in English, French, German and Hungarian.

The Most Rev. Henry P. Rohlman, D.D., and the Most Rev. Edward A. Fitzgerald, D.D., were the honored guests last night at the Annual Formal Christmas Dinner, held in the college dining hall for all Clarke students and members of the faculty.

Other guests of honor were the Rt. Reverend Msgr. William Schulte, and the Reverends Arthur A. Halbach, Philip A. Hamilton, Lawrence Guter, Eugene Weimer, John J. Pitzten, and Duane Brady, Clarence Friedman.

All I Want For Christmas

Santa,

On Christmas eve will you leave me a handsome Harvard or Yale man piloting a snazzy cream convertible? Any model convertible will do, but I prefer Cadillacs. The convertible will make it handy for me to drive down to his school for week-ends and proms. Of course, he must be at least 6'2" with brown wavy hair and brown eyes. I know that you'll pick one that is very handsome, and has a devastating personality, excellent manners, and scads of money.

Flo Freshman

Dear Santa,

Have you been busy all year looking for my present? You know that I want a tall, dark, handsome beau. If you have several candidates picked out for me, I'll take the dashing man from Notre Dame.

Sandra Sophomore

* * *

Santa, my friend,

I know that you have your bag packed with nice things for all Clarkites. If your bag isn't too heavy, would you please include a nice Loras man for me?

Janice Junior

* * *

Dear kind, sympathetic Santa,

For Christmas I want a man—over six and under sixty.

With love and hopes for the best,
Sally Senior

In the College Light . . .

Clarke's Christmas dinner has been prepared, the seniors have decorated the tree, the campus is blanketed in snow, vacation and the Christmas novena are about to begin—it's Christmas time again! And everywhere Christmas candles light the way . . .

DOWN CHRISTMAS TREE LANE . . .

where sleighs of gift suggestions have been unpacked on the December pages of The Companion, House Beautiful, American Home and Mademoiselle for last minute shoppers. And for wrappings "As Gay As the Gift Inside" see the packages illustrated in The Companion.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS . . .

you're going, and Mademoiselle has planned your take-home wardrobe so you will look just right whether you are citybound, snow-bound or sun-bound.

and for ideas on how to deck your home for the holidays, try those of "Merry Christmas All Over the House" pictured in House Beautiful. Or wrap your door as a gay Christmas present "For All to See" as shown in American Home.

FOR HAPPY HOLIDAYS . . .

wished by House Beautiful, which invites you to have a "Holiday From Hard Work" even though you are planning to entertain. By giving "formulas for festivity" they promise to make the "harried hostess as obsolete as Marley's ghost." And for those who plan to serve following the Clarke Christmas dance in Chicago, see their snack suggestions for "After the Ball is Over."

AS CLARKITES LISTEN . . .

to hear the caroling of the seniors while all over the country, campus choirs are heard in formal concerts as well as in informal caroling. This month Radcliffe and Harvard are combining glee clubs to sing the Messiah. So enthusiastically acclaimed is the chorus from St. Olaf's college in Northfield, Minnesota, a critic wrote after one of its "Met" performances that it could "only have been recruited from the angelic host." In 1950 it will concertize in twenty-five Midwestern cities.

WITH SOME HOLLY AND SOME MISTLETOE . . .

you can make the season bright. Modern facts and ancient myths about "Holly and Mistletoe" are told in the American Home for December. The red berries of holly are adapted as a symbol of the blood of Christ and the promise of life everlasting. Mistletoe in both Norse mythology and Christian legend is associated with evil of the worst kind but the Greeks conversely used it as a charm against all evil.

A WHITE CHRISTMAS . . .

just like the ones you used to know are recollected by three distinguished writers in Mademoiselle. And whether yours is a Christmas "back east in Indiana" as Jessamyn West remembers, a family protocol fulfilled by M. F. K. Fisher, or a July reminiscence like Carson McCullers, their sketches will start you dreaming of your own Christmas-past, present, and yet to be.

PEACE ON EARTH . . .

to men of good will, is the antithesis of the theme of the Christmas carol written by People's Songs, Inc. This group, listed as subversive by the Committee on Un-American Activities, substantiates the theory "That the Communists Are After the Kids." (Catholic Digest, Dec.). By publishing songs, films, comic books and text books permeated with communist doctrine, they are able to inculcate children with their principles.

THE HOLY YEAR OF 1950 . . .

will be formally opened in Rome on Christmas eve. This Jubilee year which is observed every quarter of a century is a period of special prayer and meditation and of pilgrimages to Rome by the faithful. In comparing the 1950 pilgrims with those of the Canterbury Tales, Today magazine (Dec.) hopes that those Americans who can go to Rome will pray for America—"that God will send us saints of our own." And although not all can go to Rome, all Catholics may gain the Jubilee indulgences by complying with the conditions laid down by their bishops. May 1950 be a "year of purification and sanctification, interior life and reparation, a year of great return and 'A Year of Forgiveness.'" (Family Digest, Dec.).

SANTA CLAUS IS COMING TO TOWN . . .

and if you have ever wondered "Should She Believe in Santa Claus?" when your little sister or niece questions you about the whiskered old gentleman you will find the answer in the Dec. 3 issue of America. The Rev. Demetrius Manousos, O.F.M., ex-chosen patron of gift-giving because of his Christian charity.

THROUGH A WINTER WONDERLAND . . .

you can go to the comfortable fire where you may settle yourself for a long winter's reading with the selection of books which its critics for their Christmas gifts. Included among the favorites are This I Remember by Eleanor Roosevelt, Lincoln Finds a General by Kenneth P. Williams and Journey Into Christmas by Bess Streeter Aldrich.

Don't Act Your Age!

Don't Act Your Age! At least not when you're home during the Christmas vacation and driving the family car. For people our age—18 to 24—have 83.3 per cent more highway fatalities than our share.

College students working for an A.B. degree are usually assumed to be in the possession of an S.D. degree (Safe Driver). Four years in college are supposed to be an indication that you are in possession of knowledge. Driving an automobile requires application of knowledge and common sense.

A college student shouldn't be dependent upon a 90 or 110 h.p. motor surrounded by a sheeting of metal and mounted on four wheels to assist him in being funny. What will such a person do when confined to a two-room apartment when he wants to clown or impress others?

This is a rather grim message for a happy holiday season, but the facts are that during December the pedestrian death toll hits its peak. Two or three times the daily average of pedestrians and motorists die on Christmas eve and Christmas day.

The most important contributing factor in fatal highway accidents is excessive speed. So when you're driving during the holiday season slow up, and drive as if you're life depended on it—it does. Show the public that college students are capable of exercising intelligence and common sense when driving.

Let's Solve for "X"

Santa Claus is going to turn detective because the Christ has been stolen from Christmas. That is the reason why it is now called Xmas—"X" stands for the missing quantity. Santa has deduced that the thief Materialism has quite a bit to do with the crime because Xmas has become so commercialized, and the crime wave begins months before the Christmas season. The seriousness of the crime lies in the possibility that Christmas Spirit might be murdered.

There is still a chance of saving Christmas Spirit and finding the missing Christ if all of us help Santa. All you have to do is pray and do penance during the rest of Advent. Have a crib in your home and show it respect. Remember, to give is better than to receive—don't use the "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth" method. And when you send cards send religious ones.

This won't take too much effort on your part, and if all of you would begin to observe Christmas in this spirit this year, it would not be long before the attitude would start permeating into larger circles of people. Then Santa Claus will solve the mystery. "X" no longer will have to replace Christ, and once again all will have a Merry Christmas, for the materialistic feeling will surrender to the true Christmas spirit.

Seniors Decorate MFCH Tree; Other Classes Hold Parties

Traditional Christmas festivities at Clarke began with the trimming of the large tree in the drawing room of MFC residence hall last Friday evening. Refreshments and carols around the tree served to put the seniors in the Christmas spirit. Chairmen were Joan Costello, Mary Meaney, Ann Peaslee, Norae Dennison and Eleanor Ochs.

Sleigh bells and snow provided the theme for the freshman sleigh ride last Sunday. After a jaunt over the Dubuque hills, the group assembled in the activity room for hot chocolate and taffy apples.

General chairman of the affair was Kay Hoffman assisted by Kay McNamara, Joline Widmeir, Patricia Guay, Jeanne Fife, and Catherine Sullivan.

Sophomores centered their Christmas party last evening around the residence hall Xmas tree. In charge of the informal social were Mary Fran Wrenn, entertainment, and Mary Jewell, refreshments.

Sociology Seniors Present Results Of Family Survey

Grandma was a homemaker, but today's woman is turning from the kitchen to the business world. And while Grandpa spent his life on the farm, his sons and grandsons have been moving to the city and entering the professions, trade and industry.

Challenge these statements? Well, the senior sociology majors have statistics to back them up. They have recently completed a survey of the senior class concerning the composition and trends of the family.

Results of the survey were announced at a joint sociology-economics departmental meeting in the activity room of MFC hall on Nov. 30.

The program also included a talk by Sister Mary St. Maureen, chairman of the economics department, on how the college girl can budget her money. Sister pointed out that a budget is intended "to give the things which you want most, not to tell you what you can't have."

Peggy Schemmel, Margaret Brennan, Jacqueline Shank and Carolyn Ortscheid, junior economics majors, presented short sketches of personalities in the economic world.

Candlelighting . . .

Joan Dusanek, Peggy Humeston, Marian Osterberg, Lois Kilburg, Mary Virginia Brown, Jacquelyn Matkey, Marjorie Costello, Cynthia Craemer, Marianne McCarthy and Jacqueline Dailey.

Chairman of the stage crew was Nancy Anderson. Working with her were Mary Fran O'Byrne and Joan Geisler.

Bishop Fitzgerald . . .

watched girls come here and I have seen those who did God's will achieve success. I trust that you, too, will have the grace to be loyal to Christ unto the end. If you are, then your life will be a success.

"We need to have women to offset the dangers that are prevalent in the world today," Bishop Fitzgerald told the sodalists. "We need women to offset the dangers that threaten the integrity of the home."

Bishop Fitzgerald, who will be installed as Bishop of Winona Jan. 4, was chaplain of Clarke college for 17 years. He left Clarke in 1941 to assume the pastorate of Sacred Heart church, Osage. In 1946 he was appointed auxiliary to Archbishop Rohlfman.

Glad Tidings

Because of the free day granted by Bishop Fitzgerald, Clarke's Christmas vacation extends from the last class on Dec. 16 until 8:20 a.m., Jan. 5.

Broadcasts Invite Christmas Spirit On CLRK Shows

Hans Christian Anderson's Christmas fairy tale, "The Fir Tree," will be presented on "Everybody Listen," Saturday morning at 9:45. This story, to be told by Moya Lagen and Eileen Muehl, will be the last in a series of Christmas programs on CLRK and WKBB.

Clarke's traditional Christmas story, "The Storm King's Gift," written for radio by Moya Lagen in 1947 was presented last Saturday on the children's program. Christmas in other lands was the theme of "A Woman's World."

"The Goblins Who Stole a Sexton," taken from Charles Dickens' Pickwick Papers, was the first Christmas story dramatized on Dec. 3.

Freshmen Finish Class Elections

Freshmen have completed their roster of officers with final elections November 22.

Mary Jean Rhomberg, Dubuque, was elected SLC representative. Kathleen Morrison, Chicago, was elected vice-president; Phyllis Sinda, Chicago, secretary; Dorothy Cunningham, Cedar Rapids, treasurer; Betty Neville, Chicago, historian.

Berniece Good, Wichita, Kans., was previously elected president.

'Love Means Service,' says Alumna Mary Blake Finan

"There is one great moment in every woman's life, and this is my supreme, never to be forgotten moment," was Mrs. Mary Blake Finan's reaction when she was awarded the Mundelein College Magnificat Medal as a tribute to her for 32 years of self-sacrificing work among Chicago's poor and underprivileged.

Mrs. Mary Blake Finan accepts medal from Cardinal Stritch.

The medal was presented to the Clarke alumna by his excellency, the Most Rev. Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, in a ceremony at Mundelein college, Chicago, Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 29.

Cited for Service

In reading the citation of Mrs. Finan, Sister Mary Josephine, B.V.M., president of Mundelein, recounted the reasons for selecting her as the third recipient of the medal which is conferred annually upon a Catholic college alumna.

"For her aid to her city and to her country," Sister read, "for her service to God through the social rescue and rehabilitation of His least fortunate children, for her half-century of creative, unselfish, intelligent achievement, Mundelein college today honors Mrs. Mary Blake Finan."

In her response to Sister Mary Josephine, Mrs. Finan paid tribute to the Sisters at Clarke college who had implanted in her the ideals of service. She called the medal an "impetus to hold aloft the torch of truth," and hoped that it would encourage others to look beyond earthly rewards.

Mrs. Finan concluded by begging the blessing of the Cardinal to do God's will in her few remaining years.

Cardinal Speaks

"The whole idea of the Magnificat Medal is to call Catholic women in all stations of life to remember Mary's pledge in the Magnificat," Cardinal Stritch pointed out in his address. Referring to Mrs. Finan he said, "She translated the commandments and moral obligations into everyday language. She didn't believe that there has to be a certain number of criminals in every community. She tried to remove the occasions of sin. She was not a reformer, but a restorer of right."

Sister Mary Anne Leone, B.V.M., president of Clarke, and Sister Mary Crescentia, B.V.M., dean, represented the faculty at the program and at the formal reception which followed. Mrs. Eldon Imhoff, president of the national Clarke alumnae association, was in the receiving line.

Patricia Morrey Elected Vice-pres. Of Iowa Region NSA

Patricia Morrey, SLC president, was permanently elected vice-president in charge of international student life at a recent meeting of the Iowa region of NSA in Iowa City. President is Ed Diekmann, an Iowa university student.

Helen Dalton and Teresa Ann Aid represented Clarke as official delegates at the meeting, Saturday, Nov. 19, at the University of Iowa. They were accompanied by Patricia Morrey, Mary Margaret Feeney and Mary Fran Wrenn.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain the organization and the function of NSA to those schools already members and those considering membership in the Iowa region. The activities of the four commissions into which NSA is divided were outlined. These commissions are student life, administration and finance, educational affairs and international student life.

The commission on international student life should be of especial interest to Clarkites because, in keeping with NSA policy of having an individual school take charge of a specific project, Clarke is undertaking the direction of international student life for the Iowa region. Some of the activities of this commission are the placing of DP students in the United States, the receiving of visiting foreign students, and the sponsoring of summer study and work abroad for American students.

Art Department Exhibits Water Colors This Week

Water color paintings by Kitty Parsons of Rockport, Mass., are being exhibited this week by the college art department in alumnae corridor.

Mrs. Parsons, the wife of an eminent sculptor, is chairman of arts and exhibitions in the Rockport Art association. She has exhibited her work in many states throughout the country.

China Is Discussion Topic Of Social Science Club

Conditions in China will be the topic discussed by a panel at the second quarter meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday, Jan. 11, at 8:15 p.m.

Speaking on the panel will be Margaret Kretschmer, historical background; Rita Scott, economic condition; Sheila Hogan, sociological phases; Rita Johann, religion; and Mary Redus, political situation.

Recently elected to the club's advisory board were Patricia Best, representing the economics department; Mary Jean Redington from the sociology department, and Dorothy Watson from the history department.

Child Welfare Worker Addresses Sociologists

She explained the methods of placing children in adoptive homes, and reviewed Iowa Adoption laws.

Art Mart Benefits Go to Missions

By Nancy Lingo

If you like the atmosphere of an art gallery and the fun of a party, you enjoyed the Art Mart presented Monday evening by the Graphic Arts club.

The members of the club, under the direction of Dorothy Newburgh, president, delighted the eye of their customers with the gaily decorated activity room, and appealed to their taste with popcorn, candy and taffy apples.

The most important feature of the Art Mart was the array of clever and attractive items offered for sale by the club. Hand painted stationery, note cards, place cards, figurines and pictures, as well as leather bookends, rosary cases, and belts were on sale.

All proceeds from the project will be sent to the missions.

Chairmen of the committees were Bettie Rauch, Barbara Benbow, Anne Peaslee, Berniece Good, Rose Marie Schnepf, Beverly Hoese, Mary Fran Jaeger, Barbara Hutchinson, Patricia Johann, Patricia Considine, Phillis Frazier and Mary Heim.

Rhythm Swimmers Begin Practice For March Ballet

Swimmers will begin practice immediately after vacation for the annual water ballet which is to be presented in March, it was announced by Miss Rosalyn Muehl, swimming instructor.

With the music from The Student Prince as its theme, the ballet will consist of eight numbers, including sextets, quartets, trios, duets, and a solo given by a senior chosen from among the participants in the ballet.

A special feature of this year's ballet will be a diving and competitive swimming division under the chairmanship of Patricia Burke.

The following girls have been appointed chairmen of the eight groups which make up the water ballet: Beth Aschenbrener, Ann Marie Byrne, Rita Johann, Joan Hanna, Betty Campbell, Kathy Leonard, Rosemarie Van Dyck and Eileen Muehl.

Freshman Class Entertains Seniors Of Local Academy

Seniors from Visitation academy were entertained at a tea given by the freshman class in the solarium of Administration hall at 3 p.m. Friday. This was the second in a series of socials sponsored by the freshmen to acquaint girls of Dubuque and high schools with Clarke.

The visitors were conducted on a tour of the college and then returned to the solarium for a short program presented by Ann Bitter, Kathryn McNamara, Jacqueline Dailey and Ruth Dunbar.

Evergreen sprigs and red candles gave a Christmas atmosphere to the solarium. Mary Jane Rhomberg and Janis Bailey presided at the tea table.

The tea was under the direction of Miss Rita Holmberg, of the home economics department.

Freshman Speech Student Is On Banquet Program

Mary Virginia Brown, freshman speech student, was a guest artist at the annual banquet of the Catholic Daughters of Iowa Sunday, Dec. 4, in the Gold room of the Hotel Julien. Miss Brown presented a Christmas reading, "The Littlest Angel."

Sophomores Win Volleyball Laurels In 4-Court Games

Sophomores emerged as undefeated champions in four-court volleyball after a two-round session with the three other classes Tuesday evening, Dec. 6.

Although four-court volleyball is not new in the sports world, it is new on the Clarke campus and most students played their first game Tuesday. Prior to the game Mrs. Wilbur Dalzell, physical education instructor, explained the rules of the game and emphasized the fact that errors counted as points and that the low-scoring team would be the winner.

Sophs Take Lead

After the first few minutes of play the sophomores, captained by Jane Walsh, took the lead, maintained it throughout the rest of the game and ended with only 14 points against them. Their closest rivals the seniors, scored 22 points. Freshmen ended with 23 points and the juniors were highest with 43 points.

Although the sophomores had a bad start in the second game they quickly regained their stand, tied the freshmen in the third quarter, and came out leading with 8 points. Freshmen scored 9 points, the seniors 12 and the juniors 23.

Playing for the sophomores were Miss Walsh, Jane Greteman, Bonnie Lee Haberer, Mary Bausch, Mary Weller, Rosemarie Van Dyck, Dolores Stayer, Dolores Kahover, Joan Schuster and Jean Prebis.

Wiltgen Leads Seniors

On the senior team were captain Virginia Wiltgen, Patricia Jans, Jeanne Doll, Leona Ryan, Theresa Mackin, Helen Dalton, Mary Margaret Feeney, Rita Johann, Mary Fran Jaeger.

On the freshman team were Mary Jean Rhomberg, captain, Rosalie Sullivan, Sheila Malone, Kay Hoffmann, Mary Watters and Be Good.

Junior players were captain Frances Zender, Marg Brennan, Patricia Gauvin, Jane Diamond, Rachelle Schemmel, K. Therese Hart, Jackie Shank, Betty Campbell.

Seniors Are Guests At Alumna Holiday Tea

In the midst of holiday festivities the Dubuque Clarke club entertained the alumnae and members of the senior class at a Christmas tea last Sunday afternoon in the solarium of MFC hall. The Rt. Rev. Sylvester D. Luby, president of Loras college, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. V. J. Grice was general chairman for the occasion while Mrs. E. H. Bulkley and Mrs. Wilbur Dalzell presided at the tea table.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament immediately preceded the tea.

Deck the Halls . . .

seems to be the theme song of the girls on third floor in the residence hall. Rosie Schnepf and Ann Danisch have wrapped up their door like a gift package, big bow and all. Many, many Santa Clauses, complete with cherry nose and snowy beard, beam from practically every other door. Created and donated by Therese Fox (whose belief in the existence of the jolly old elf remains firmly unshaken), these all-seeing Santas have had a miraculous effect upon the behavior of the third-floorites. In fact, the monitors are reported to be applying for unemployment compensation.

A More Positive Program . . .

in the form of a letter to the North Pole has been initiated by the monitors on Letter Wing. Kat-i Byrne and Barb Abernethy. Their letter reveals the astounding news that the formerly sociable inhabitants of Letter Wing have developed "retiring" dispositions. "They're so retiring, Santa," the monitors complain, "that they now go to bed right after quiet hours. The silence is unnerving. Please, Santa, send us a little noise for our wing. The girls seem to have used up their present supply, and we are desperately in need of at least 12 large yelps, seven medium-sized guffaws, assorted giggles, and one or two guest-size arguments. Please rush!"

Speaking of Monitors . . .

Rosemarie Van Dyck's face was several shades more "rosy" after checking rooms one night around 10 o'clock. It seems she heard a bit of commotion coming from the general direction of the room occupied by Pat O'Malley and Marie Therese Hartnett. So, putting on her official glare, she banged authoritatively on "their" door. No answer; and the hilarity continued. What was worse, the door was locked. "C'mon, open this door," Van demanded icily. She warmed up considerably when she suddenly realized she had miscalculated the source of the noise and was hounding the next-door neighbor instead. The neighbor? Just Sister Mary Jacqueline!

A "Four-Pointer" . . .

made a two-point landing the other night when her adviser entered her room. Jackie Shank was standing on her head on the bed, her arms flailing wildly, her feet pounding on the wall, when Sister Mary Jacqueline walked in. Sister almost sent a rush call to the registrar to arrange a lighter schedule for Jackie, before the now-upright junior could explain that she was only practicing her tumbling act for the Cecilians' Christmas program.

A Major Crisis . . .

developed not long ago when Kitty Cullen became enraged at the candy machine. It was full of candy bars, but every time she put in her nickel and pulled the lever, the nickel came out again. Determined to win the battle of man vs. machine, Kitty grimly kept on inserting the nickel, and with perfect aplomb it kept on bouncing back. She had reached the point of utter frustration when suddenly she peered with haggard eyes at the lever she had jerked ump-teen times. It said: COIN RELEASE. Kitty has now signed up for the remedial reading course.

It's a Pretty "Week" Excuse . . .

or maybe the juniors were just "dazed" at their class meeting when K. Therese Hart told her reason for believing that the "first Saturday in January" was actually in December. Her explanation? "I didn't realize Saturday came so late in the week."

Completely in the Dark . . .

about their work were Beverly Hoese, Phillis Frazier and other unenlightened seniors as they managed to blow several fuses while "fixing" the lights on their class shrine for Dec. 8. The dark deed had repercussions, too, for a few seconds later, the CLRK transmitter refused to work. When Katy McCarthy confronted the guilty seniors conducted themselves out of the room with revolting haste. Of course, it was rather a shock to those concerned.

Memorable Events . . .

at the Press convention in Milwaukee: Kathleen Dumser trying heroically and almost learning to laugh-out-loud, under her fellow-delegates' patient tutelage . . . Liz Bartels vehemently not wanting to talk to Santa Claus in Milwaukee's Boston store . . . Peggy Sullivan knitting a whole bed sock in 20 minutes flat (time, not position) . . . yours truly (startled by the tuneful "welcome-home" of friends in the East Dubuque station) taking a nose dive off the train steps and slithering gracefully over the station platform. (All I want for Christmas is m' two front teeth).

Your Trip Home . . .

won't end (or begin) with that kind of a bang, we trust, but come what may, have a very happy Christmas! See you in 1950!
